

LEADERSHIP &
ADVENTURE PROGRAMS
BY RAXA ACADEMY

BENEFITS OF LEADERSHIP AND ADVENTURE PROGRAMS

Leadership potential is “caught more than taught,” and outdoor-based experiential training (OBET) practices are ways to modify and develop leadership potential. Outdoor activities encourage creative thinking, test determination, promote discipline and emphasize the importance of pushing the limits. Also, outdoor oriented leadership learning gives exposure to group activities and ambiguity inherent in adventurous exercises. It forces people to adapt themselves even in adverse conditions. Studies have revealed that outdoor tasks help people concentrate more on the actual activity and its purpose, for example, people involved in rock climbing will pay very close attention to their safety and in turn to the whole experience as such.

Participants display their true feelings when taking part in such exhilarating activities and they get to see their true personality as well as the personality of their co-workers.

Engaging people to work collectively will open new paths to enhance existing traits, developing new skills and will help them take effective and timely decisions in adverse situations. Exposure to unfamiliar environments requires new competencies which result in effective decision making, a very important facet of leadership. This also results in improvement of interpersonal communication and emotional understanding.

This approach is pursued at Raxa with an aim to facilitating the participants to increase their leadership competencies and skills because the traditional style of learning does not provide an opportunity to unlock new, unexploited potential or to react on unfamiliar or unexpected events an individual might face.

Raxa Academy offers the adventure and leadership activities not only within the Academy but has also partnered with top adventure tourism companies having vast experience in conducting adventure activities in exotic locations in India and Abroad
